About the Keynote Speaker

Reshaping Community:

What happens when citizens decide to be a Happy, Caring and Thriving Community?

In a world of increasing social isolation and declining community, what happens when community citizens choose to strengthen their social connectedness, belonging and a culture of caring?

A little about our keynote speaker - Barry Braun

When Barry Braun was reflecting on the future of his grandchildren, he decided to do something about their future. Barry believes that the young people of today will need communities of connectedness, belonging and caring more than ever. And so, he decided to use his professional skills for organizational culture change to create the Happy Community Project. The Happy Community Project focuses on changing community culture to being more connected across differences, belonging and caring for each other's well-being.
