New Service

Effective November 13, 2018, RBC is launching a service called Visa Account Updater (VAU) for personal and business RBC Visa cardholders (commercial RBC Visa cardholders are excluded). A similar service already exists for personal and business RBC Mastercard cardholders called Automatic Billing Updater (ABU).

These Credit Card Account Updater services automatically update a participating merchant with a cardholder's credit card number and expiry date for recurring payments the cardholder has set up with that merchant.

The Credit Card Account Updater services only apply when

- a cardholder has authorized a merchant(s) to charge automatic recurring payments to their credit card account,
- the merchant has enrolled in a Credit Card Account Updater service (VAU or ABU), and
- the cardholder's credit card number or expiry date changes.

This means that if you have set up a recurring payment with a participating merchant using your RBC credit card, we will automatically provide that merchant with your new credit card number and expiry date when we reissue your credit card so that your recurring payments are not disrupted.

You can opt out of these Credit Card Account Updater services if you don't want your new credit card number and expiry date to be automatically shared with participating merchants. Whether you opt out or make no changes to your account set up, you remain responsible for any recurring payments you have authorized merchants to charge to your credit card account.

For more details including how to opt-out of the Credit Card Account Updater services, visit rbc.com/cardsfaq or call us at 1-800-769-2512.

Hi Yvonne,

Thank you for your email.

A driver will be sent to pick up the requested items and you will receive a follow-up from Operations within the next 2 - 3 business days, to confirm the pickup was completed. Please have the returning items in their original packaging, ready for pick-up at the same time.

For future reference, you can also return items to your local Staples Store. Simply bring along the packing slip and the credit card used for the purchase.

We apologize for any inconvenience this may cause you. If there is anything else we can assist you with, please do not hesitate to contact us.
